

Richard Small, MD of Supply Network Solutions said "Orion has listened carefully to our requirements, they have contributed valuable thinking and now, with their help, we are able to offer consolidated web enabled ordering and tracking. The single bespoke order page is easy and clear to use and allows us to measure supplier performance and carbon load by product".

SNS is a network of food companies working together but each one passionate about their own distinct specialties.

Orion Web Technologies are leading developers of internet-based logistics IT solutions, to support customer's business strategies, environmental policies and service level objectives. John Whitehorn said 'Orion is genuinely innovative, and our solutions are both flexible and scalable. We offer a complete set of web based modular logistics IT solutions making us ideally placed to create a seamless supply solution for all the SNS food specialists'.
